

Undies for Everyone®

We have all seen the utter devastation of the Houston TX area from Hurricane Harvey. The widespread destruction is beyond belief. There are many ways you can help the victims of this natural disaster. The Village is collecting certain items that information is available here www.villageoflansing.org another good place to donate is www.redcross.org/donate/hurricane-harvey

While reading my Instagram feed this morning I found several of the artists that I follow linking to Brene Brown who is a social worker and author who lives in the area. She has been assisting at a shelter and told a story of how important a simple thing like clean underwear is to folks who have absolutely nothing. People donate used clothes but not underwear!

There actually is a not-for-profit called Undies for Everyone located in the Houston area whose mission is to give underwear to needy children. After the hurricane occurred they have expanded their mission to include underwear for all ages and sizes.

The library will be a drop spot for this worthy cause. There are boxes located on both levels of the library.

Here are the rules for donation:

Please keep in mind that they need a variety of sizes for men, women, boys and girls including XXL.

- 1. Purchase new, packaged underwear and bring your donation to the Lansing Public Library. We will take care of shipping them to Houston.
- 2. Purchase undies from their Amazon wish list at:
https://www.amazon.com/gp/registry/wishlist/ref=cm_wl_search_24?ie=UTF8&cid=A35ZJCQ83YWCDC
- 3. If you prefer you can give cash and Undies for Everyone will purchase underwear at wholesale prices. A little more bang for your buck! Donations can be made at www.undiesforeveryone.com simply by pushing the donate button and filling in the required information.

A big thank you to all who help!
